

Post-MI Care: Cardiologist Ruled Not Liable.

The jury in the Circuit Court, Prince William County, Virginia ruled the cardiologist was not at fault for complications following an E.R. visit for chest pains.

The hospital's nurses reportedly waited ninety minutes to alert the cardiologist on duty that the patient's EKG showed bundle branch block and his labs showed elevated troponin levels. Sobti v. Prince William Hosp., 2008 WL 942629 (Cir. Ct. Prince William Co., Virginia, January 16, 2008).
